

BITTER STRUGGLE ENDS IN THE

SCORES KILLED AND INJURED IN CHILEAN QUAKE

More Than 100 Reported Dead at Copiapo—Other Cities Also Suffer.

TIDAL WAVE IS FATAL

Thousands Are Made Homeless as South American Towns Are Destroyed.

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, Nov. 11.—(By A. P.)—Upwards of 100 persons were killed and many seriously wounded by the earthquake which overtook many buildings early this morning in Copiapo, capital of the province of Atacama.

The first shocks were felt in Antofagasta City a few minutes before midnight last night. These were prolonged and very severe. The citizens were greatly alarmed and almost immediately the telegraphic lines that connect the north with the south were broken down.

About 1:30 this morning a tidal wave inundated part of the city, flooded scores of buildings close to the beach. The radio station was completely flooded and the waters cut off the radio machines, surging more than a mile over the dunes. In soon waters ebbed several hundred yards.

OTHER POINTS SUFFER

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 11.—(By A. P.)—The town of Copiapo, in the province of Atacama, midway between Valparaiso and Antofagasta, was destroyed by the earthquake which shook Chile early today. Thirty persons are known to have been killed and 50 injured.

Reports from Concepcion and Talcahuano, to the south, make no mention of damage or casualties. At Concepcion a strong earth movement from east to west was felt for about three minutes at midnight. At Talcahuano a tidal wave occurred, following the subsidence of which the water level was lower than normal.

The movement was steady and caused no damage.

All telegraphic communication with points north of La Serena, in the province of Coquimbo, has ceased. Advice telling of the disaster at Copiapo were received here by way of Bolivia and Buenos Aires. The tidal wave at Chanael destroyed the greater part of the town. The inhabitants are without food.

It was for a time feared that the city of Antofagasta had suffered a great disaster in the earthquake, but most of the damage done at that place was due to a tidal wave, which drove the people out of their homes over a considerable area. No report of loss of life has yet come from Antofagasta.

Chanael has virtually been abandoned by the inhabitants, as many buildings were wrecked by the immense waves sweeping in when the earth shocks had ceased. The greater part of this town was destroyed. Throughout the province of Coquimbo, hundreds of houses were leveled, while the residents fled to the hills. At the port of Coquimbo a tidal wave beat over the entire town, flooding a large section and wrecking many buildings.

From the southern part of Chile come reports of severe shocks but little damage.

Another earth shock was felt at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon. It was of ten seconds duration.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, who was murdered on the Phillips farm with Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, said tonight through her attorney that she is willing to be finger-printed if it would in any way assist in running down the slayer of her husband.

Certain authorities conducting the investigation have said that several persons who have been questioned would be asked for finger prints. Timothy N. Pfeiffer, attorney for Mrs. Hall, said tonight that the authorities could not arrest Mrs. Hall unless they did so on the basis of "false testimony."

"Mrs. Hall is innocent and has nothing to fear," he said, in announcing the willingness of the rector's widow to have her finger prints taken.

HIGH OFFICIALS PAY TRIBUTE TO UNKNOWN HERO

Pres't Harding, Pershing and Others Place Wreaths on Soldier's Tomb.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(By A. P.)—President Harding laid a wreath of remembrance today on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington cemetery. It was set there as a wordless greeting from the heart of America to a valorous, honored son and commemorated the first anniversary of his homecoming from France.

The utter simplicity and sincerity of the tribute today was in a way as gripping to the few who saw it made as was the day-long tide of emotional fervor that marked that homecoming. It set a custom for the national observance of Armistice Day in the future that will make the unknown from France the keeper of America's annual expression of pride and glory in her sons who fought in France, be they living or dead.

There were many other tributes brought to the tomb during the day. Sometimes little groups of men and women from distant cities made the journey to lay bright flowers on the moulded stone work that holds the body of a nameless American for whom no honor has been too high; sometimes the blossoms were laid there by men moved to individual tribute to the dead. It was thus that Gen. Pershing's offering was placed.

Pershing's Tribute.

The man who commanded the humble sleeper and the surging ranks of his comrades in force had gone himself and alone to carry his tribute to the fallen to the tomb. But he was called elsewhere to talk with patriotic men on living issues in the nation's life and reluctantly assigned his aide to go after all others had come and gone with their flowers and place his offering on the tomb.

A mere handful of spectators and a little detachment of armed men made up of soldiers, sailors and marines, to represent the three fighting services of the nation, were at hand when the president appeared to pay the nation's honors to the dead. Cavalry had escorted the presidential party from the White House, but had turned aside before the tomb was reached. There was no word spoken on the terraced sweep where the tomb lies except the commands that moved the rifles of the guard of honor to salute.

Places Wreath.

The president placed the great wreath against the stone work of the tomb, then stepped back to pause a moment looking down on the plain block of masonry that covers a plain soldier chosen to typify the greatest among the nation's heroes. The hush on the scene was almost breathless and every eye was fixed on the still figure of the president, standing with bowed head bent as though in reverie. Slowly, almost as though it were unconsciously, the president raised his

ITALY HOLDS WAR DEBT VALID, SAYS FASCIST PREMIER

Mussolini Thinks American Viewpoint May Change on Matter, However.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Premier Benito Mussolini, head of the Fascist government, sent word to the United States today that Italy regards the war debt to America as an honorable obligation to be met, but at the same time he outlined some of the things Italy desires the United States to do.

In a statement to International News Service, the premier said: "My opinion is that the question of inter-allied debts and reparations are inseparable. Italy regards her debt as one of honor, but of course, it is possible that the viewpoint of the United States may undergo change in the future."

To Ratify Pacts.

"All the conventions worked out by the Washington conference will be ratified by Italy."

"We hope to be able to balance the next budget."

"We are hopeful that the United States will soon lift the restrictions upon Italian immigration. We believe that Italian workmen could be used to good advantage in the United States at this time, when America is building up her industries after the war strain and when good workers are needed."

Mammoth Patriotic Parade Marks Armistice Observance

South Bend Pays Fitting Tribute to Memory of Honored Dead on Fourth Anniversary of Signing of Armistice—Whole City Joins in Patriotic Program.

Yesterday was the ex-service man's day.

It made no difference whether they were Civil, Spanish-American or World War veterans. All were honored, and all took part in South Bend's observance of the anniversary of the signing of the armistice of the day, four years ago, when the guns of war were silenced.

South Bend's fourth observance of Armistice Day will be long remembered as one of the most successful observances of a national holiday. The entire city joined in paying tribute to the memory of those who had made the supreme sacrifice in the cause of freedom, and the solemn tribute to those honored dead was the outstanding feature of the many events in connection with the varied program.

The immense parade, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which for beauty and color has never been surpassed, was the crowning event. Great Saturday night crowds flocked to the line of march, and cheered the veterans, who had ridden in many instances, war time regalia. Men uncovered as the National Colors were by and here and there a woman with moist eye, recalling those stirring days when her own answered the call, nodded as though her assent voiced the eternal hope that war would end for all time.

Many in War Uniforms.

As the parade moved on Colfax and turned south on Main promptly at 7:30 o'clock, powerful bombs cracked overhead and their detonation signalled that the procession was enroute. The trench helmets worn by the Veterans of Foreign Wars stood out in strange contrast to the present peaceful pursuit in

MILITARY CRISIS IN NEAR EAST IS STILL DEADLOCKED

Turkish Nationals Reported as Continuing Defiant to Allied Demands.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Near Eastern situation is deadlocked with the Turkish Nationals' continuing defiance of the allies today, according to advices here.

The Ankara government rejected the plan negotiated between Pasha, Turkish commander, and the allied high commissioners to conciliate allied occupation of Constantinople, and taking over of the civil administration by the Kemalists, the Echo de Paris declared it has learned.

A dispatch from Constantinople to the Agency Radio declared the situation further complicated by the refusal of the Sultan to obey the Ankara government's command to resign.

The sultan still considers himself chief of 300,000,000 Mussulmen, his secretary announced, according to these dispatches.

It is understood the compromise plan of Refet Pasha and allied representatives provided for allied military occupation of Constantinople while the Kemalists on civil administration. It would have been necessary to conciliate their powers as they would function without friction. The Ankara government was said to have taken the firm stand that the allied forces including warships, must be withdrawn.

NOTRE DAME AND ARMY TEAMS PLAY BRILLIANT, SCORELESS BATTLE ON HISTORIC PLAINS

Fumble Halts Onrushing, Last Quarter Advance of Irish and Prevents Almost Certain Victory—Light Notre Dame Team Plays Brilliantly Against Powerful Opponents.

BY ROY MC CARTHY
(By Special Arrangement With the New York Tribune)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The largest crowd that ever attended a football game on the Plains here, saw the powerful Army eleven and the speedy sophomore Notre Dame team fight to a scoreless tie in one of the bitterest struggles ever waged on the local field. So fast was the play of both teams, especially Notre Dame's attack in the final quarter, and so quickly and constantly did the complexion of the game change that the spectators were on their feet practically throughout.

The crowd would probably have had to stand, anyway. The West Point authorities, anticipating an exceptionally large attendance, had erected extra stands to accommodate something like 8,000 persons. There were at least 15,000 inside the enclosure, with another 5,000 standing outside of the stands. The pressure of the mob was so strong that it pushed right out almost to the edge of the playing field.

There is virtually no decision to render on the play of the teams today. However, Notre Dame got nearer to the Army goal line and was prevented from scoring in the final quarter simply because of a fumble on the local four yard line.

Army Threatens Early.

Early in the game, in the first quarter to be exact, Army advanced to Notre Dame's 12 yard line where the bantamweight forwards of the visitors held fast. The locals lost the ball here on a forward pass that was grounded over the goal line.

In the second period the Cadets marched to the enemy's 17 yard line, then attempted a pass which Layden intercepted on his own 10-yard line. This was the best and the only good chances either side had to score. Both teams made attempts at kicking goals from field but none of these were even close.

Some, consequently, are inclined to feel that the football was not up to class A standard. But so perfect was the defense of both elevens that it was remarkable that either team advanced the ball at all. More remarkable than that, though, is that this Army line, which is undoubtedly one of the greatest in the country, was played to a standstill by the forwards of the western eleven, who were outweighed 20 pounds or more per man.

Irish "Open Up."

The first half, to be sure, was not as swift as Notre Dame Army struggles usually are. That was mostly because the western attack was compact and did not get under way as rapidly as usual. In this first half the Army had the two above mentioned instances for scores which did not materialize. And those were about the only opportunities the Cadets did have because they were kept going at top speed in the latter stages of the melee holding back the charges from crossing their line.

The Irish players, however, must have given their men some kind of ginger or pepper between the halves because that South Bend outfit certainly traveled late in the game. So fast and so bewildering was its offense it was almost impossible to follow the various formations and maneuvers. The Army deserves unstinted praise for stopping the visitors. We want to see the team that scores on the Army again this year. It will have to be a knockout.

A resume of the first two periods shows that Army gained about 60 yards to Notre Dame's 53 and three first downs to the visitors' two. In the first period Army, cutting loose with a forward pass, intercepted the ball with jabs at the line, carried the ball to Notre Dame's 12-yard line where a pass from Wood to Smythe grounded back of the goal line giving the ball to Notre Dame on its 20-yard line.

Fumble Almost Disaster.

In this same period Notre Dame advanced the ball to Army's 22-yard line. Castner tried a drop kick but the Army forwards rushed him so fast he scarcely had a chance and Army recovered on its own 19-yard line. In this second period there were many fumbles and one of these appeared disastrous for the visitors at the time it was made. Wood punned a high, long spiral that Stuhldreher allowed to drop and then attempted to pick up. He fumbled and two Army forwards smothered the leather on Notre Dame's 46-yard line.

From that point the soldiers, aided by the Irish, advanced the ball to the 20-yard line.

RUSH AID TO SHIP REPORTED ABLAZE

Crew of Steamer, Believed Mundale, in Jeopardy as Fire Spreads.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 11.—Assistance was sent late today to a steamer 75 miles off Cape Hatteras, wireless messages stating that the blaze, which started in No. 2 hold, was spreading and the crew was in jeopardy. As received here, the messages indicated that the steamer was the Mundale, but investigation developed that vessel was in port at Baltimore and steamship officials expressed the belief that the craft was the Mundale, a craft of 2,071 tons register, which plies between New York and Cuba.

The coast guard cutter Manning, which already had left for the assistance of the schooner Lillian Jeer, reported in distress 75 miles off Cape Henry, was instructed by wireless to proceed to the aid of the steamer and other craft were dispatched to the schooner. Late tonight no further advices had been received from the steamer or the coast guard cutter as to the situation.
